Advanced CLPM Workshop

The Advanced Command Language Program Manager (ACLPM) Workshop, hosted by the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center was initiated as a means of communicating current advances in the language community to CLPMs and to provide a forum for collaboration and CLPM professional development.

This ACLPM marks the 30th anniversary of the event, the first was held June 6, 1994. Over the years, the event has changed; however, the focus on collaboration and CLPM professional development remains the same.

The three-day ACLPM features several different formats and options for attendees:

- Tuesday's schedule features a keynote address, CLP support update, and topical presentations of relevance to CLPMs.

- Wednesday will include DLIFLC, Department of Defense, and Service discussion panels; the afternoon is dedicated to Service breakouts.

- Thursday morning the workshop will offer mission-focused presentations, a resource expo to showcase DLIFLC and other government-related offerings. Thursday afternoon the LREC Community will recognize the DoD and Service winners of FY23 Command Language Program of the Year and Language Professional of the Year.

Advanced CLPM Workshop

Please keep in mind that DLIFLC has language classes in session and ACLPM attendees CANNOT disrupt the educational mission. Language classes begin at 0800, so the gates will be busy between 0730 and 0815.

Parking on the Presidio can be a challenge; plan to carpool if possible and/or arrive early.

Uniform: ACU, MCCUU, NWU, ABU/OCP

Select sessions will be streamed through the edu version of MS Teams, can can be viewed by clicking the *Join on MS Team*s links on the agenda page. Cameras and microphones will not be active for these sessions; however, questions can be submitted.

Because Teams meetings are scheduled in half-hour increments, a Teams meeting may be scheduled to begin several minutes prior to the in-person presentation is initiated in Teams session. Please refer to the schedule of events for actual streaming times.

Office of the Commandant

Dear Advanced CLPM Workshop Attendee:

Welcome to the FY24 Advanced Command Language Program Manager (ACLPM) Workshop hosted by the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center. This is an exciting time for the DoD Language, Regional Expertise, and Culture (LREC) community; much has been done over the past two years and we are excited about the future possibilities. This year's ACLPM theme, Professionalizing the CLPM, recognizes and celebrates the important role of the Command Language Program Manager (CLPM) in linguists' development and explores how to best prepare CLPMs as advisors and program managers.

The ACLPM's primary objective is to communicate policy and process information to CLPMs; the workshop also provides a forum for networking, collaboration, and professional development. LREC policymakers and leaders will present updates and initiatives relevant to the community. Your participation in workshop activities and candid feedback are the keys to ACLPM success--now and in the future.

We encourage you to take advantage of this opportunity to expand your network, meet new colleagues, and share your ideas and good practices. We also look forward to recognizing the military language community's best with the presentation of DoD and Service Command Language Program of the Year and Language Professional of the Year awards.

I hope to meet as many of you as possible and am looking forward to participating in the discussions.

Sincerely,

Christy L. Whitfield
Colonel, U.S. Army
Commandant
